

Class Eight/Nine

Friday 6th February 2015

Project

It is not just the Vikings who were good story tellers! There were some fantastic pieces of homework last week – well done.

Lots of you have been asking if we can do the 500 word competition again this year because you enjoyed it so much in the past. This week in class we have discussed the competition and visited the website to find out more.

For your next project we would like you to email us the story you want to enter in the competition. This needs to be done by Tuesday 24th February so we can send off your entries before the deadline. If don't have access to a computer at home then ask and we will arrange for you to use a laptop at school.

Although we try not to set homework over the holidays the closing date of the competition is quite soon.

Last year 5 children from Park Grove got through to the latter stages of the competition. How well will we do this year? It's up to you!

Spellings

Remember to complete your spelling homework.

By Thursday (12th February) you need to fill in the sheet by completing the sentences with the words provided. Next week we will test you on some of these words and some words that do follow the rule.

Extension

You could have another go at the games we played in class and record how you got on in your homework book. The website was <http://www.spellzone.com/games/index.cfm?wordlist=37>.

If don't have access to a computer at home then ask and we will arrange for you to use a laptop at school.

Other Notes

An exciting week ahead to end the half term! On Tuesday we will spend all day taking part in different music activities as part of our Music Enrichment Day. Childline will visit us again on Wednesday so that we can take part in some workshop activities they have planned for us. To round the half term off... the table tennis final between Louie and Ben will also take place on Wednesday!
